You are invited to a screening of Being Mortal – a “Frontline” documentary that explores the hopes of patients and families facing terminal illness and the doctors that care for them – from [Enter time, day, date location information here]. Join a national dialogue taking place in your community concerning an inescapable reality of life: death. Gather with friends, neighbors, co-workers, and peers to watch this important documentary that not only builds a bridge between people who face serious illnesses and the doctors who care for them, but that also illustrates the value of a patient’s personal choice, decision-making, and the need for discussing their goals with a physician to ensure that the medical care received is responsive to the desires of the patient and their family. After each screening attendees will be able to explore what they learned and how to take control of their own health care decisions. All are welcome, admission is free and refreshments will be served. All attendees will receive a gift card and be entered to win a prize in a raffle drawing. For full event description, location information and to RSVP go to www.eastbayacp.org/events. This screening is presented by the East Bay Conversation Project (www.eastbayacp.org). Questions may be sent to accma@accma.org.
